A SPECIALIST TEAM OF EXPERTS

Financial institutions need lawyers who understand them and their business environment because they are subject to myriad and ever-evolving regulations affecting their products, services, governance and the way they operate. This is why De Brauw has an integrated, cross-disciplinary Financial Institutions Group, which is also part of the European Financial Institutions Group of our Best Friends network.* We make sure that our lawyers advising financial institutions, in addition to being leading experts in their fields of legal practice, have a deep understanding of the specific challenges, developments and opportunities faced by the financial sector.

Our Financial Institutions Group has advised on the most important deals in the market and has an established track record working both alongside and within major financial institutions.
